Gill Hines is an Education and Parenting Consultant specialising in wellbeing. She has also co-authored 3 books on parenting and regularly contributes to the media. She is known for her entertaining and down to earth approach.

This is a great first workshop for anyone new to Gill Hines' sessions as it covers all the basic principles and techniques for helping children to:

- want to behave well
- take responsibility for their own behaviour
- learn from their mistakes

as well as some guidance on keeping your cool and being clear, the two things many parents may find hard to do after a trying day.
